Well, while one soap psycho bows out this week, another has truly been born – as we're still gasping at Lachlan's cold-blooded murder of Gerry in Emmerdale last week. Okay, so Lachy killed a couple of his family members a few months ago, but that could maybe... just about... well, perhaps be passed off as a moment of madness, as he snapped at the thought of being forever separated from the love of his life, Belle. But when he dropped that rock on his best mate's head, we realised Lachlan had crossed that line drawn in the soap sand, and is now definitely on the dark side!

So, to make room for Lachy in the soap bad-lad lands, we have to say goodbye to Phelan – surely our favourite soap villain in years. But he goes out with a bang – quite literally! – in a series of blockbuster episodes right through this week. Ta-ra Pat, it's been a blast!

VERY ANGRY...

...but Gary and Sarah intervene just in time to stop the villain's escape!

The INSIDE SCOOP

First with the week's HOTTEST headlines...

All hell breaks loose on Coronation Street this week, as wicked Phelan makes a return to the cobbles and opens fire on the locals! The Weatherfield super-villain is back with all guns blazing in five heart-stopping episodes on every weeknight at 9pm, right after the Britain's Got Talent live semi-finals. No one is safe as Gary's terrible decision to bring Pat home to pay for his heinous crimes backfires in spectacular fashion – setting off a horrific chain of events that will change lives forever. As the cold-blooded killer collides with Robert and Michelle's wedding, will the cobbles ever be the same again?

Phelan's killer week gets off to a nail-biting start, when Gary and Joe track down Pat to his hideaway caravan in Wales and kidnap him!

"What Gary should do, of course, is report the serial murderer's whereabouts to the police," wisely asserts our Corrie insider. "But the sight of Phelan contently breathing in the fresh sea air causes him to lose his rag and bundle his nemesis into a van! Little does Gary realise that his hasty actions will cost him dearly..."

After Gary and Joe transport unconscious Phelan back to the Street, Sarah is horrified when she turns up at the builders' yard, and chances upon Eileen's presumed-dead husband bound and gagged in the storeroom. Gary's fiancée is furious with him, and points out that he could end up sent to prison for assault and abduction. But as the pair argue, Phelan is coming to – and plotting his escape...

Webster finds himself at the builders' yard after Gary and Sarah have left Phelan locked up, confident that he's going nowhere. However, when Jack discovers Pat, the wily builder offers the lad a tenner to find some scissors to cut him free.

"It's the sort of scene that will have viewers shrieking at their television screens, willing Jack not to do it," reckons our source. "The poor kid doesn't realise what he's doing!"

The nation will breathe a collective sigh of relief when Gary and Sarah return in the nick of time, to discover Jack on the verge of setting Phelan loose! The pair send the boy on his way and, after Pat goads Gary with cruel jibes about his mum Anna, the furious fella snaps and subjects his prisoner to a vicious kicking.

However, the situation takes a horrifying turn when Phelan breaks free from his restraints – and pulls a gun on Gary and Sarah! Are the pair set to become the first victims of his monstrous revenge?

Michelle's happiest day ends up as her worst nightmare!

THE GROOM STORMS OFF – BUT THAT'S THE LEAST OF HER PROBLEMS...

Michelle and Robert are hoping for a 'happy ever after' as their wedding day dawns this week – but it's looking more 'happy never after' for the bride and groom, thanks to Phelan's trail of terror.

The couple had planned a low-key ceremony in the Bistro following the upset of Aidan's recent passing – but even before their unexpected guest arrives waving a gun around, Robert and Michelle's big day appears doomed...

"First Michelle learns that Johnny isn't feeling up to coming – then her son Ryan goes AWOL after getting hammered!" wails our cobbles spy. "Fortunately, Daniel and Robert track him down after it transpires he's spent the night with a woman. But when her husband arrives, Ryan stitches his stepfather-to-be right up – claiming that Robert was the one who slept with his wife!"

KISS OFF!

Despite bearing the brunt of the angry husband's fury, Robert drags Ryan back to the Street, insisting nothing will spoil his and Michelle's big day. But little does he realise!

"There's more drama in store when Steve turns up, armed with the knowledge of Robert's steroid addiction," divulges our sneak. "While Steve's in no position to judge, he reckons Michelle deserves better than Robert – and when she gets emotional on hearing Steve's bad news, he decides it's the perfect opportunity to move in for a kiss!"

Of course, Robert chooses the exact same moment to walk in on the oblivious pair – and before they've even noticed him, he turns on his heel. Feeling utterly betrayed, he packs up his car – and on telling Daniel the wedding's off, he speeds away.

ROAD TO NOWHERE?

Poor Daniel is forced to tell Michelle that Robert's on his way to London – and she's horrified when she realises that Robert must have witnessed what happened between her and Steve...

"She's beside herself – and furious with Steve!" spits our insider. "Blaming him for everything, she tells him to make sure Robert gets back in time to marry her – or there'll be hell to pay. But trusting her hapless ex with such a vital task is a very brave move!"

As heartbroken Robert speeds down the M6, is it already too late for anyone to coax him back to Weatherfield?

PHELAN BOWS OUT IN AN EPIC FINAL BATTLE...

"Michelle's earlier dramas with Robert and Steve are completely eclipsed by this mad man storming into the restaurant, having already shot one of their neighbours on the Street," trembles our Weatherfield insider. "Those inside the Bistro are terrified for their own safety, while fearing for the life of the person he brings to them drenched in blood."

The deadly drama unfolds after Phelan leaves Sarah and Gary tied up at the builders' yard, before making a beeline for Eileen's house. It's the first time she has clapped eyes on her monstrous hubby since she sent him crashing into the sea, and Pat hasn't forgotten!

When he forces his way through the front door of No 11 with his shooter, both Eileen and Pat's daughter Nicola quickly realise that Phelan means business. Nicola bravely takes up a position in front of Eileen, determined to protect everyone inside the house. However, events soon spiral further out of control and, before long, a gunshot rings out...

Young Charity's agony revealed!

A SPECIAL FLASHBACK EPISODE SHOWS HER TROUBLED YOUTH...

EMMERDALE | ITV TUESDAY

Charity is just a teenager when she endures her ordeal

The horror of Charity's younger years is revealed this week – as a series of dramatic flashbacks to her teens show the full extent of the abuse she suffered at the hands of vile DI Mark Bails.

As Charity is forced to finally share with Vanessa what happened to her, viewers will get to witness her terrible ordeal in the special scenes featuring a younger version of the Dales favourite.

At the beginning of the week, Vanessa learns about the baby boy Charity had as a result of the abuse she suffered – and attempts to investigate further with Harriet. So as Charity reveals the whole story of what happened to her, Vanessa is even more determined to get justice – and knows the baby's DNA is the missing piece of evidence that could help her partner launch a criminal case against Bails.

"This is harrowing stuff, but Charity has to finally open up about what happened all those years ago," says our Dales

"Charity spent years trying to put all this behind her"

Charity's flashback shines a light on her harrowing past

“I think viewers will be shocked!”

Talented newcomer Mica Proctor tells us about being the younger version of the troubled Ms Dingle...

How do you think the audience will react to seeing Charity in her younger years?

I think they will be shocked, as I don't think they know the full extent of what Charity has endured. You get the gist that she's been through a lot, but this is a real eye-opener, and it's very tragic.

What has it been like to play a Dales icon?

It was a little bit nerve-racking. I felt like I needed to do the character justice as she was only 14 when this terrible thing happened, but I also needed to make sure I got the mannerisms right. I watched Emma Atkins play Charity on screen, and I looked at the way she held herself; how she crossed her arms quite a lot; the way she walked. I wanted to incorporate it in the younger Charity.

What make-up and costume process did you have to go through to look like young Charity?

I didn't have to do much, but I have blue eyes, so I had to wear green contact lenses. My hair was pretty similar, so we just curled it, and the clothes were 90s-style – which was awesome.

Were you and Emma on set at the same time?

Emma and I were on set the same time for a few things. It was nice to work with her, and she's such a good actress. It was helpful to see her get into character and into that mindset.

You don't see that side when you're watching on TV – you don't see what they do to get to that position.

insider. “She's grown so close to Vanessa, and she trusts her – though how will she feel about her other half's meddling?”

Charity has already revealed that Bails kept her at a flat and repeatedly raped her in her youth. But he doesn't know she had his child, and the idea of locating her late son's grave and exhuming his body to get DNA to use in a trial against the detective is too much for Charity to bear – and Vanessa is unable to change her mind.

“Charity is determined to let the truth about her secret son remain buried,” says our spy. “She has spent years trying to put this all behind her, but Bails keeps popping up in her life. Charity's story shows why she's so scared of him and what he could do next. Vanessa and Harriet don't realise the damage they will do if they don't let this secret rest.”

Charity has spent her life on the fringes of criminality, always chasing money and power – and admitting the root of all this dysfunction is going to be tough. But now that she's in a relationship with a woman who truly loves her, and is blessed with three children who need their mum, will Charity find the strength to stand up to Bails once more?

SHAKIL'S DAD AND BROTHER ARRIVE - BUT CARMEL MAKES A TERRIBLE DECISION...

EASTENDERS | BBC1 BANK HOLIDAY MONDAY

The Kazemi family comes together this week to grieve for murdered Shakil – but there's another heartbreaking twist when Carmel comes to the decision to try to end her own life.

As the week gets under way, Carmel's ex-husband Umar and son Darius arrive in Walford to support her in the wake of Shakil's tragic passing. And they're just as inconsolable as Kush and Carmel after hearing that Shaki has been killed...

"EastEnders viewers have been waiting patiently to meet the rest of the Kazemi family – but nobody could have imagined that it would end up happening under such tragic circumstances," sighs our Walford insider. "There's not much love lost between Carmel and her ex-husband following their acrimonious divorce. However, given the devastating nature of what's happened, they put all ill feelings to one side – and are united in their grief for their youngest son."

RIP SHAKI

But it's not just Shakil's family who are struggling to get their heads around his senseless death. The entire Square is reeling at the loss of someone so young, and the locals are queuing up to pay their respects to the lad.

It's clear just how much

Shaki was loved as his friends and neighbours leave their condolences at a makeshift shrine in the Albert Square gardens – and it should be a great comfort to Carmel to know that her son was held in such high regard. However, with her grief still so raw, the sight of the shrine is too much for Carmel to bear – and she tears it down in a fit of rage.

Her actions leave Kush deeply worried about his mother's state of mind, especially when she begins obsessing over Shaki's missing watch. And Kush's concerns mount after he realises that his dad and Darius are still expecting him to move to Dubai and live with them after Shakil's funeral – which would of course mean abandoning his shattered mum in her darkest hour.

CARMEL'S PAIN

However, before Kush finds an opportunity to discuss things with his dad, Umar lets slip to Carmel that Kush is still planning to move to the Middle East – prompting broken Carmel to make a decision that could have far-reaching consequences...

"The pain Carmel feels right now is unbearable, and she just wants to make it all go away," reveals our mole.

"Without her sons around, Carmel sees no reason to go on living – and decides that the only way out is to end her own life. However, once the wheels are in motion, she stumbles upon Shakil's missing watch and instantly regrets what she's done. But is it too late to reverse her decision?"

Kush is completely beside himself when he realises what Carmel has done, and swings into action in order to get his mother urgent medical attention. Thankfully, the paramedics arrive before any serious damage is done, and Carmel assures her worried family that it was nothing more than a moment of madness. But it seems that she's still unable to face the terrible reality of losing her son.

Carmel is in a terrible way – and needs the support of her loved ones

As the week draws to a close, Linda organises a memorial for Shakil in the Square – and Carmel's friends rally round to try to get her to go along. The mum is still utterly broken over her son's death, though, and refuses to go to the event – leaving her loved ones concerned that she's not properly dealing with her tragic loss.

As the vigil gets under way and Linda commences a minute's silence in Shakil's honour, Kush, Darius and Umar gather to remember their beloved brother and son. But can Carmel be coaxed out of the flat to pay tribute to her youngest boy? And how will she cope if Kush does abandon her to start a new life in Dubai with his dad and his sibling?

The Square in mourning

BUT TROUBLE'S IN STORE FOR SHAKIL'S MATES...

As the impact of Shakil's tragic death continues to rock Albert Square, the lad's friends gather to celebrate his life in their own special way this week. However, things soon escalate when they break into E20 to continue their reminiscing.

"The kids just can't get their heads around Shakil's murder," explains our Square insider. "Although death is a frequent visitor to Walford, this has hit them all hard. They've never even considered the idea of losing one of their own – especially in such violent circumstances – and this has completely changed their whole outlook on life."

The young friends each write their own touching tributes to Shakil, and gather around Arthur Fowler's bench in the centre of Albert Square, which has been decorated with dozens of bouquets of flowers. The pals add some photographs of themselves larking about with their much-loved friend, along with some of Shakil's personal belongings.

However, the youngsters then drift away from the rest of the mourners, who are heading over to the Queen Vic to continue their vigil.

"All of the Square's older residents are gathering in the pub, to pay their respects to the tragic young man in the traditional East End way – with a drink and a toast," our spy tells us. "But Louise and Hunter's gang break away from everyone else, in order to do something more fitting to remember their mate."

Hunter suggests that they head over to E20, which is bound to be empty at that time of day. So he leads a small group including Louise, Bex, Tiffany and Bernadette towards his mum's club.

"Hunter figures he may as well make use of having a mum who runs a nightclub!" laughs our snitch. "The club is full of drink, so inevitably one thing leads to another..."

To take their minds off their grief, the assembled teens play a game of 'spin the bottle' – with some rather interesting consequences.

But what really goes on at the club? The next day Tiffany notices Bernadette acting oddly – though there's bigger worries for Hunter when Louise hears Sharon tell Mel there's been a break in at E20. When he rushes to the club, he finds the safe has been emptied. As the police arrive, are the group in bother?

EVA'S FUNERAL BREAKDOWN!

Will she crumble and confess her baby secret as Aidan is laid to rest?

The tragic loss of Aidan Connor will continue to be felt over the coming weeks, as the Street gathers to pay its respects at his funeral. These paparazzi shots of the Corrie cast filming the sombre scenes on location show the late businessman's family and friends struggling to contain their grief.

However, Aidan's shattered father Johnny could be in for one hell of a shock when the emotion of the day overwhelms heartbroken Eva, who recently gave birth to Aidan's daughter. Will this be the moment when Eva cracks and finally reveals that the little girl Toyah has claimed as her own is actually a Connor?

"Johnny is navigating every parent's worst nightmare, and barely coping as it is – so there's no telling what Eva's bombshell might do to him," frets our cobbles source. "Knowing that baby Susie is his last link to Aidan is either going to make or break him."

The day that Johnny thought he would never see comes around all too quickly, while his family continues to struggle in the wake of Aidan's death. As Johnny helps to carry his son's coffin into the church, the anguish felt by his daughters Carla and Kate is plain to see. Can they be strong for each other and get through the day as a family, or will inconsolable Johnny continue to deflect support from all those who love him and want to offer their help?

Aidan's older sister Carla tries to hide her grief

Meanwhile, Toyah will be at Eva's side as she tries to console her. But with Eva in such a bad way, how much longer will they be able to keep Susie's true parentage a secret?

"I WAS PRETTY UPSET BY GERRY'S DEATH!"

Shaun Thomas reacts to his killer exit from the Dales...

Jaws hit the floor when psycho Lachlan bumped off his best mate Gerry in Emmerdale just recently – but no one was more cut up about his grisly exit than star Shaun Thomas, who played the doomed fella.

"It was a real shock," confesses the 20-year-old actor. "I was only meant to be in the show for two episodes while Lachlan and Gerry were in prison together, and I ended up staying for a year-and-a-half. To be told it was coming to an end was pretty upsetting."

"Laying on the floor [under the rubble] for three days was quite uncomfortable, so that was a challenge in itself," adds Shaun. "But Tom [Atkinson, who plays Lachlan] and the directors were brilliant. They made it really comfortable for me, so it was easy to do my thing."

Lachlan has officially earned himself Dales serial-killer status after making Gerry his third victim. So does that mean his soap sell-by date is fast approaching, as his crimes threaten to catch up with him?

"I don't think so," muses Tom, taking up the conversation. "Lachlan's already killed his mum and grandad, and that was five months ago, so he's just adding one more to the list – and I don't mean that in a horrible way! Characters who kill people do eventually get their comeuppance, but there are still people in the village getting away with murder, so we will have to see!"

STOP PRESS!

Danny's off!

EastEnders' Danny Dyer will swap the Square next year to appear in The Dumb Waiter and A Slight Ache with Martin Freeman. The plays run for just three weeks – so we shouldn't lose Mick for long!

Get serious

Corrie's Antony Cotton says a new plot is on the horizon for his alter ego, Sean, that is very close to the actor's heart. "It's an unusual storyline, very serious and not what you would expect from Sean," hints the star.

Thank you

Dame Barbara Windsor has thanked fans for all the messages of support she's received since the news broke that she is living with Alzheimer's disease. "God bless everyone," she said. "Have no fear, as I still intend to carry on."

There's a shock in store for two locals...

HOLLYOAKS

Chester bosses have signed two new faces to spice up the village – one of whom we have met before! Dirk's daughter Liberty Savage is coming home, only she looks a little different this time, as West End star Jessamy Stoddart takes over the role from previous actress Abi Phillips.

"Liberty left Hollyoaks to pursue a music career in America after landing a record deal," a spokesperson for the soap reminds us. "But the reality of her LA dream turned out to be less shiny than she had anticipated, and it's time to return home."

"Liberty has missed her family, and is excited to make up for lost time," adds our insider. "She will be the glue that holds them all together."

Meanwhile, Goldie is set to be reunited with her older brother, Sylvester 'Sylver' McQueen (played by David Tag), when he turns up after being released from prison.

It doesn't take long for the pair to start bickering, or for Sylver to catch the eye of a local lady. But who'll have the hots for the fella? We'll find out later this summer.

Soap SPY...

Double trouble!

As far as we know, Phelan isn't on his way to Walford after terrorising Weatherfield – but EastEnders' Jake Wood (Max) and Corrie's Connor McIntyre had great fun comparing bad boy notes at a party recently. Sami's been playing a long game in his quest for revenge on James, but this week he decides it's time to act – as he plots to fake Kyle's death and frame James for murder.

"He's been waiting quite a while for this moment to arrive!" reveals actor Rishi Nair, who plays Sami, when we chat to him about the upcoming drama. "His whole reason for coming to Hollyoaks in the first place was to get revenge on James, so it's a huge week for him."

"Sami has everything mapped out perfectly..."

But while Sami is a man on a mission, Kyle is beginning to have doubts about the whole scheme, especially as he's seen a different side to their intended victim in recent weeks...

"Sami is now starting to suspect that Kyle may be falling in love with James for real," Rishi tells us. "This is why he decides to speed up the revenge plan, and do it before Kyle has a change of heart."

The plotting pair spot James with another man, making Kyle even more confused. Sami sees his opportunity and

"He's extremely focused on the task ahead, and has every step of his plan worked out," says Rishi of his on-screen alter ego. "Sami's a clever man, and has everything mapped out perfectly. The fact that he's a solicitor also helps as it means he knows the law very well – and how to work around it!"

At the same time as he's plotting James' downfall, Sami is also dating his rival's sister Ellie. We wondered if his feelings for her are real, or just another part of his devious plot?

"Sami is completely and utterly in love with her!" admits Rishi. "He wants to get the revenge plan over and done with so he can concentrate on his relationship with Ellie."

While Sami might be looking to the future, he's headed for a whole lot of trouble this week, as events take a turn for the worse – though he's fiercely determined to stand his ground.

"Sami thinks everything he is doing is justified, because he

Brave David decides to speak out!

HE OPENS UP TO GAIL – AND REPORTS JOSH TO THE POLICE...

David is at last ready to face his demons this week, as he informs the police that Josh raped him.

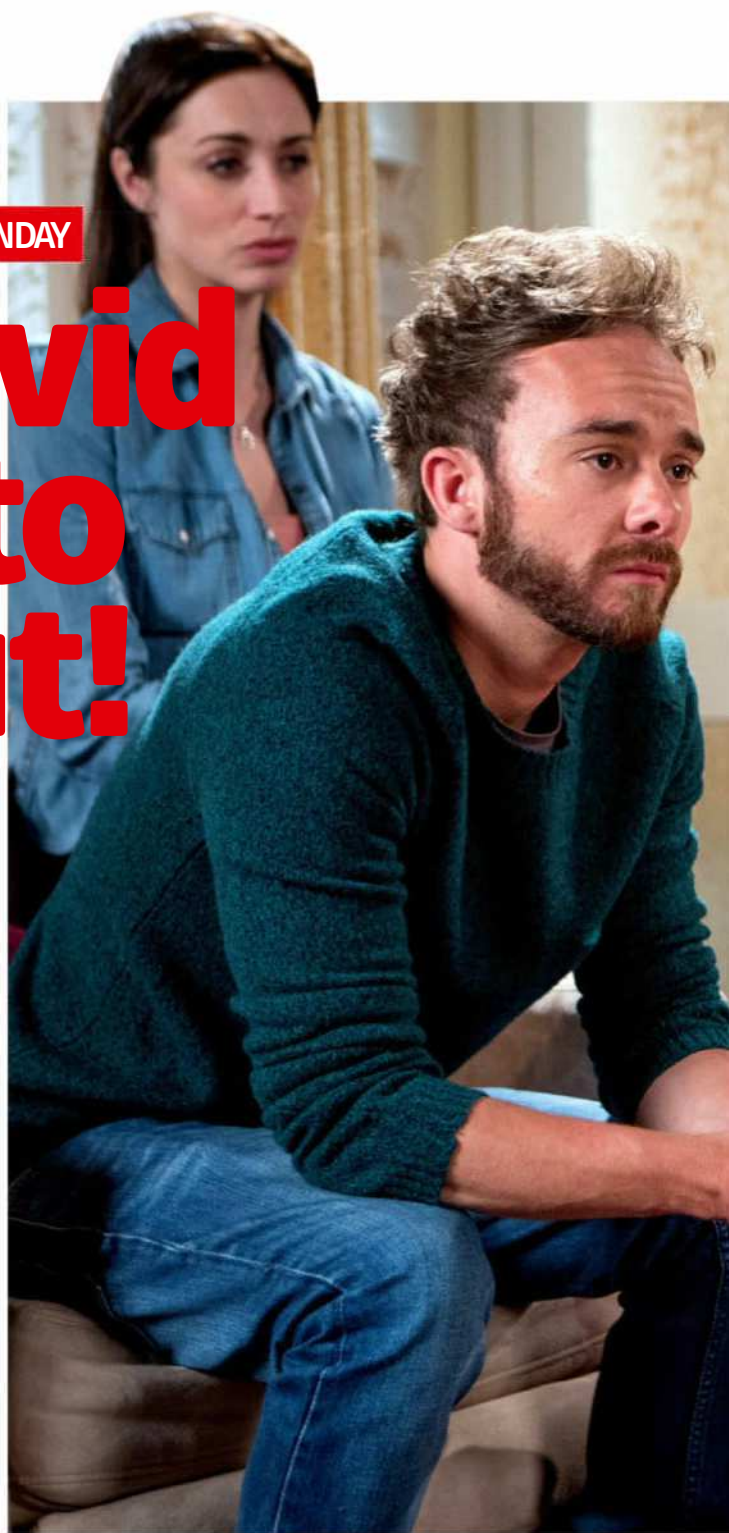

Having buried his inner turmoil for weeks, David takes the brave step after meeting another of Josh's victims – and witnessing the emotions of grief-stricken neighbour Johnny. But is he strong enough to see the traumatic task through, and will it bring him the closure he so desperately needs?

"David shouldn't be scared that he won't be believed – this is the point of the storyline," insists Jack P Shepherd, who plays him. "He shouldn't feel embarrassed. He should talk and not keep it all bottled up inside him. David realises that he can't move on until he does that. For Josh to get punished, David has to talk to the police."

As the week begins, David is tracked down by Dec, an old colleague of Josh's who Shona discovered was also one of his victims. Dec insists that he can't bring himself to go to the police about Josh, and that he wants Shona to stop bothering him. But shortly afterwards, David finds himself listening in as Johnny – who's mourning the loss of his boy Aidan – confides in his friend Peter, and what he hears changes everything...

"Johnny says he wishes that his son Aidan – who recently took his own life – would have talked to him about what was going on in his head, which hits home for David," shares Jack. "Even though David has been extreme in his behaviour at times, no one knew what he was dealing with until he admitted everything to Shona – and her believing him made all the difference.

Despite his arrest, Josh continues to protest his innocence

"David's been afraid of reporting Josh to the police – but after hearing Johnny pour his heart out, he knows that talking about it is the only way for him to move forward."

“David realises that he can't move on until he talks to the police...”

BOUNCING BACK

Jack has been working hard...

While Jack hopes that David's plight is helping Corrie viewers, it's been important for the star to step out of his troubled alter ego's shoes at the end of the working day...

"This storyline has got people talking, which is exactly what we set out to do," he declares. "When you're playing a part, you get on with telling the story – but to see the effect it's had is rewarding. The team here have done great with the scripts and getting the message across."

"But I've had to take myself away for a while to shake off David after the more challenging scenes," adds Jack. "I have to go to quite a dark place to get that emotion, so it's vital to return to reality quickly."

Vile Josh is carted off by the police – but is this the end of him?

However, after Josh's other half Alya tells Shona he's about to leave Weatherfield, David has no time to lose. Supportive Shona is right behind him as he heads to the police station – and having given his statement, he confirms he's prepared to testify against Josh in court. Back home, David also resolves that he'll get checked out at the STI clinic, while Shona insists she'll be by his side every step of the way. And a short while later, the police arrest Josh on suspicion of rape.

"David is so grateful to Shona," explains Jack. "Even when he tried to push her away by moving in his new 'girlfriend' Emma, Shona never retaliated. They've always loved each other, so it's a massive thing for David that she's with him through this. Now he's told the police everything, it's about Josh owning up to what he's done and admitting he raped David – he's still saying it was consensual, and that's really eating David up."

As expected, Josh feigns surprise as cops take him in for questioning. But while David waits for the outcome of Josh's arrest, he finally confides in Gail and Audrey. Will his courage be rewarded by Josh being charged? Or is his heartless attacker about to wriggle off the hook?

Graham struggles to find the words as he relays his ordeal to Cain...

EMMERDALE | ITV BANK HOLIDAY MONDAY

Cain's gunning for Ross!

AFTER THE SHOOT-OUT DRAMA AT HOME FARM, WILL CAIN COME CLEAN ABOUT WHAT HE KNOWS?

Following the shooting at Home Farm, Cain heads to the manor house this week – demanding answers about what's been going on.

"Cain is on the warpath after he finds out what's happened," reveals our Emmerdale insider. "When he learns the full extent of the sorry saga from Graham, he's sent into a blind panic..."

Graham manages to calm Cain long enough to divulge how Ross completely flipped out, tied him up with duct tape and threatened Joe with a gun – playing a deadly game of Russian roulette with a single bullet that he had loaded into the weapon.

Graham also explains how Ross is now utterly convinced that Joe is the guilty party who instructed drug dealer Simon to carry out the acid attack that left Ross with permanent scars on his face. Of course, it was Cain's daughter Debbie who was responsible for ordering the hit, and the real intended target was ironically Joe himself – a cover-up that Cain is now complicit in.

"Cain is aghast to hear how far events have now escalated," says our informant. "And his anxiety turns to pure horror when he discovers that the skirmish with Ross and his firearm has resulted in someone actually being shot! Everything has spiralled way out of control – and Cain can't help but feel responsible for kicking off the whole grim chain of events. He's sickened, and realises that he has to confront Ross before he stoops to a new low. But how much worse can things get?"

As Cain digests the details, Graham and Joe are left convinced that he'll reprimand Ross for what he did. Do they want Cain to punish him? Or would they rather this whole situation was laid to rest?

"It depends on a lot of factors," teases our source.

"Cain is sickened to hear how far events have escalated..."

Ross got trigger-happy – and it resulted in one villager being shot

“Cain does have a heart!”

Jeff Hordley tells us his Dales alter ego is consumed by guilt...

Cain must be haunted by his actions every time he sees Ross' scars, which serve as a constant reminder of the role he played in the attack. And Jeff couldn't agree more.

“Yeah, absolutely,” sighs the star. “As much as Cain is a tough guy, he has got a heart! With the whole situation surrounding the acid attack on Ross, Cain feels incredibly guilty.

“He was the one who introduced Simon to Debbie in the first place, and paid him to plant drugs at Home Farm. Now obviously, Debbie didn't order an acid attack on Ross – but she did go to Simon and ask him to rough up Joe.

“So although Simon is where the real blame lies, Cain still feels guilty,” adds Jeff. “Without him introducing Simon to Debbie, there would have been no acid attack, no mix-up, and none of the other awful events that have followed!”

...but what will Cain do now that he's armed with all the facts?

“You have to weigh up whether Ross getting taught a lesson is more important than keeping him in the dark about how he was scarred for life. There's a secret to protect and besides, Ross has suffered more than enough – but at the same time, he himself has now put a life in danger, and that can't just be forgotten.”

Cain storms off to confront Ross, and on arriving at his house, tells him they need to talk things through. But what does Cain have in mind? Is it revenge, more lies – or will he finally come clean with the truth and reveal how Debbie was the one who inadvertently caused Ross' injuries?

It would seem that Kat has no more excuses not to see Alfie and the kids

EASTENDERS | BBC1 TUESDAY

Will Hayley expose Kat's secret?

BLACKMAIL DRAMA FOR THE SLATERS...

The mystery behind Kat's return to Albert Square deepens this week – as Hayley insists that unless she hands over a pile of cash, the whole family will discover what she's been hiding! Can Kat convince Hayley to keep her gob shut?

"It's a brave woman who messes with Kat Moon – but shameless Hayley is obviously convinced she has the upper hand here!" snaps our EastEnders insider. "They've been at daggers drawn for a while, and though Kat wants rid of her for good, Hayley is like a dog with a bone – and seems hell-bent on milking whatever it is she knows about Kat for all it's worth!"

Kat's deep dark secret relates in some way to her mysterious estrangement from husband Alfie and kids Tommy, Bert and Ernie – who remain in Spain where Kat and Alfie were running a bar together. Kat has so far refused to divulge why she's no longer there with them – but when Jean comes across an old photo of Kat and the kids this week, she's determined to organise a family reunion.

"Mo and Stacey warn her off getting involved, but Jean's having none of it – she's on a mission and won't stop until she succeeds!" reveals our spy. "She manages to persuade Mo to part with a box of dodgy shampoo to help raise the funds – so not even Kat can say no when Jean later surprises her with the plane tickets.

"It's a brave woman who messes with Kat Moon!"

"Whatever it is that Hayley knows, it leaves her reckoning that Kat has absolutely no intention of taking a Spanish sojourn when she departs the Square. So Hayley considers this the perfect time to start blackmailing her!"

Hayley names her price – but will Kat be forced to pay it?

As Kat gives her nearest and dearest every reason to believe that she's about to hop on a plane to the Costa Del Somewhere, Hayley seems convinced that Kat has other plans. So, determined to not let her relative slip through her fingers, Hayley delivers her ultimatum – cough up some cash or she'll tell the Slaters everything.

Will this threat prove worrying enough for Kat to hand Hayley a big load of money in exchange for her silence? Or can canny Kat convince her to keep shtum?

Chas' baby bombshell!

THE EXPECTANT MUM RECEIVES SOME DISTURBING NEWS ABOUT HER AND PADDY'S UNBORN CHILD...

Parent-to-be Chas gets the shock of her life this week – when she's told something alarming about her and Paddy's unborn baby.

The couple recently made a pact with each other, promising that they'd both stop being so superstitious about their future together. Chas had been plagued with anxiety about the prospect of having another child, feeling that she'd failed her son Aaron – but after a heart-to-heart with his beloved, Paddy managed to reassure her that she'd be a fantastic mum to their new baby.

However, fresh doubts are sewn in Chas' mind this week, when she realises that she has her dates mixed up and she's actually due at the hospital for an ultrasound later that day, rather than in 24 hours' time!

"Oh my goodness, poor Chas," sighs our Dales correspondent. "When she realises that she's made a mistake with her diary, she gets a sinking feeling in the pit of her stomach. She panics that she won't get to the hospital in time for the scan, and thinks that this is yet more evidence of how she's unfit to be a mother.

"Of course, it's a completely understandable slip-up, given all the recent upheaval in their lives – but she can't believe she's been so careless, and she's furious with herself. She desperately searches around for Paddy, though he's nowhere to be found, and all her jitters about having another baby return. Chas has no choice but to go to the appointment alone."

Fortunately, she is able to make it to the hospital just in time for the scan, and her fears are allayed. However, Chas' relief is only temporary, as the consultant examines the baby more closely, and spots something extremely worrying...

"The sonographer scans the baby, and is happy to be able to tell Chas that she's going to have a little girl," reveals our mole. "Obviously, Chas is overcome with joy when she

DETERMINED to be a DAD

This is Paddy's first opportunity to have a child of his own – despite the fact that he's come close on several occasions.

Sadly, Paddy's marriage to first wife Mandy broke down before the couple could be parents. However, he and his second wife Emily did foster children – including Debbie – though still never had biological kids. And after Paddy began going out with Chas, he got off to a rocky start with her son Aaron, but eventually nurtured a special father-son bond with the young lad.

Even when Paddy started dating Rhona, and she discovered that she was pregnant soon afterwards, it turned out that baby Leo's daddy was actually her ex, Marlon!

Of course, Paddy tried to be the perfect father figure for little Leo – just as he was with Aaron – even though the one thing he still craved was to be a biological dad. So when Chas announced she was having his baby, and they decided to keep it, Paddy was over the moon.

But will his life-long dream of having a flesh-and-blood child end in happiness or heartbreak?

hears that, and she can't wait to tell everyone the exciting news. But the scan has also revealed something else. Surely fate couldn't be so cruel as to dash Chas' hopes all over again?"

Whatever the news is, it's set to turn Chas and Paddy's lives upside down. However, as Chas lies there in shock following the diagnosis, she has no idea how she might broach the sensitive subject to Paddy. What will she tell him?

Tom Spilsbury

Chas goes to the scan solo – how on earth will she tell Paddy the bad news?

TEEN SPIRIT

I had to laugh at Keegan and Shakil's attempts to impress those girls in EastEnders this week – and the fact that Carmel saw right through them! Shaki's a good lad at heart, and it's such a shame that he won't be around much longer. His relationship with his mum is really lovely.

📍 | Sam, Newcastle

DEAD UNFAIR

Are you kidding me? How could Neighbours pretend to kill off Karl? That was such a cruel stunt! I actually believed it at first – I even had to rewind the episode just to check what had happened. I was so relieved when it turned out to be in Susan's head and that Karl had pulled through after all.

📍 | Natalie

As if they would ever bump off Karl – he's a soap legend!

GRIEF ENCOUNTER

I understand that Johnny's grief over losing Aidan must be utterly unbearable, but the way he's been treating his wife Jenny is inexcusable. As she keeps pointing Karl dead? Thank goodness it turned out to just be a dream sequence!

Aidan's death could well push Johnny into Liz's arms...

Johnny and Jenny are ununited in grief

DADDY DAZ

I'm really disappointed that Daz has turned out to be Amelia's dad in Emmerdale. It's such a predictable story! I don't really care much for Daz – Bernice deserves a far better boyfriend – and I think Dan is a much better dad to Amelia than he'll ever be.

📍 | Justin, Coventry

Ali certainly had her fair share of men before she decided that she liked the ladies better!

SEE YA SLATER

I know the Slaters have always been a little bit rough around the edges, but that Hayley is absolutely vile. There's no way Martin would ever be interested in someone like that! She doesn't seem to have any redeeming features whatsoever – even her own family, who always look after their own, won't give her the time of day!

📍 | Georgina

I feel a bit sorry for her – she is homeless after all.

How can Robbo be a secret policeman?

WHAT A COP OUT

I'm so confused by Home and Away this week. After everything that's happened with Robbo over the past few months, are we really meant to believe that it was a lie and he was a cop all along? How do they explain all the people Beckett Reid is supposed to have murdered? And wouldn't the local police have been told about this sooner?

👤 | Julia

I'm sure all will be revealed!

RING THE CHANGES

Emmerdale's Moira and Cain have been through so much apart and together, so it was really moving to see such a romantic moment on their wedding anniversary when they exchanged rings and put them back where they belong. I'm so glad they are together again.

👤 | Sylvia, Hayling Island

Who'd have thought that Cain was such a soppy romantic?

A happy moment for once

SUPER SOAPS

It was great to see some of the soaps getting on board with Mental Health Awareness Week, including Hollyoaks and Doctors. As someone who has experienced mental

NICO BACK FROM THE DEAD!

My jaw almost hit the floor when Sienna's stalker in Hollyoaks turned out to be her 'dead' daughter Nico! And the shocks just kept on coming as Nico stabbed her mum and left her to die...

I guessed right from the start that Sienna's stalker was going to be Nico! It's the golden rule of soap – if a character's body isn't found, then they're probably not dead. It was still a brilliant twist to see Nico stood in the middle of Sienna's flat.

👤 | Jilly, Macclesfield

It would have been a much better story if Sienna seeing Nico had all been in her head.

What if she had just imagined that she was being stalked all along? Classic Sienna!

👤 | Sean

How could Hollyoaks just kill off Sienna like that? She's my favourite character, and I cried my eyes out when they said she was dead. Nico stabbing her like that was such a brutal way to go – Sienna deserved better.

👤 | Colin, London

But some Hollyoaks fans can't be fooled that easily...

I do not think Sienna is dead. I think Ben's son – who is also a copper – has her put into witness protection, so Nico will come out of hiding.

👤 | Thomas

Sienna being dead doesn't make any sense. If she really was gone for good, I don't think they would have teased it with the flash-forward of her funeral. Also what would be the point of bringing back Nico just to have those couple of scenes with Sienna? I'd stake my Soapbox winnings on her still being alive!

👤 | AJ, London

But did you guess that Nico was hiding a baby bump under that coat? Or that Warren would turn up?

Lynn died inside No 9

Des was the first casualty at No 6

DEATH WATCH

Me and my husband got to wondering the other night – is there any house on Coronation Street where someone hasn't been murdered?

👤 | Paul

Yes – lots! Basically, the rule is: try to live on the old, odd-numbered side of the street! If we don't include the Rovers, only No 9 on the odd-numbered side (currently home to Fiz) has seen a murder – Lynn Johnson was killed there by her husband Roy back in 1975. No 5 (currently Chesney's house) was the location of John Stape's murderous attack on Charlotte Hoyle, but she survived to die in hospital. By contrast, all three houses on the 'new' even-numbered side have seen juicy murders, including Maxine Peacock at No 4 (now Sally's house), Des Barnes and Charlie Stubbs at No 6 (the Nazirs') and Callum Logan at No 8 (the Platt house).

“This is the hardest thing I’ve ever done on Emmerdale!”

As the Dales takes us back to Charity’s teenage torment, Emma Atkins and co-star Michelle Hardwick reflect on this heartbreakingly dark story...

EMMERDALE | ITV TUESDAY

It turns out that there’s a reason why Charity Dingle is so damaged, destructive and sometimes even diabolical – and it’s a secret of her past she thought she’d long since locked away. Charity is a person haunted by demons from her days as a homeless young woman – little more than a child – when she was forced into prostitution.

This week, Emmerdale takes us on a harrowing journey back to Charity’s youth, as she finally opens up to Vanessa and tells the story of what happened all those years ago. Inside Soap ventured on a trip to the Dales to find out more from actress Emma Atkins, who plays Charity, and her on-screen lover Michelle Hardwick (Vanessa)...

Hi, Emma – did you know the full extent of Charity’s tragic backstory before now?

Emma I was just told that it could be quite dark – but I knew that Charity was an ex-prostitute, she was on the streets for quite some time, she was excommunicated from her family, and she was in a desperate state. So I was given little nuggets of information. Only when DI Bails turned up in the Young at heart: Charity watches her younger self as we explore her deeply traumatic youth village a few years ago did the show say that there’s a dark past that we’ll be visiting at some point, which was exciting. Then I left to have a baby in real life, so they shelved it for a bit.

Michelle, how did you feel about Vanessa being the one to whom Charity finally reveals what happened to her in her youth?

Michelle Well, Vanessa’s the audience – that’s why she’s there. It would have been easy for me to be in the scene pulling a dramatic face and giving it large, but you don’t. You listen and be still, because it’s Charity we’re watching and listening to. It’s been a joy seeing Emma work – I’ve learned a lot from her.

How hard was it for you to get into Charity’s mindset when you filmed these tough scenes, Emma?

Emma Just very challenging, and the hardest thing I’ve ever done while I’ve been on the show, but I’ve loved every second of it. I know that sounds weird!

Teenage nightmare:
Young Charity is played by star Mica Proctor

Michelle made it so easy as well. When you are filming scenes like this, you need to come back to the story and never wander too far to any personal emotion.

There's some brilliant use of 90s music in the episode that helps to ground you in the time that all of this is taking place, isn't there?

Michelle Yes, it's so clever. There are many little moments of transition you may miss on the first watch, but will see second time round – like when Charity arrives at the hospital, and suddenly it's a maternity wing in the 90s.

Emma Everything was spot-on – the set design, the music, everything. The radio starts playing Adamski's Killer as Charity is driving to the hospital, and that connects her to that time.

What was it like working with Mica Proctor, who plays young Charity in this episode?

Emma Mica was incredible – she's brilliant. She doesn't have to speak, her eyes say it all. We didn't talk about Charity together before filming, but I was there when she did some of her scenes, and I was blown away. Mica is a gorgeous human, too – she came in and was part of the team immediately. I have her phone number, so I must text her and say how brilliant she was.

Michelle Mica said she'd watched clips of Emma and was trying to mimic her mannerisms. She'd really done her homework, and she was fantastic.

Do you think that Emmerdale pushes the boundaries with some of the stuff it shows at 7pm – particularly in this episode?

Emma It's so well-filmed and well-written that I think we've got away with it. There's only so much we can show. There are bits when you say, "Oh my goodness, is that going to go out?", but we have people working hard to make sure it's okay for the time slot.

Michelle There are occasions when you know where it's going, but you don't see it – like with Lachlan holding a rock over Gerry in an episode recently. The moment when young Charity gets hit is powerful stuff, and obviously with a story like this, it's going to be hard.

How did you shake off all this darkness after filming, Emma?

Emma My house is very hectic with my little boy Albert and my dog, so when

"People work hard to make sure the show is okay for its time slot" EMMA

I get home my responsibilities come railroading in! Albert is three, and he's so funny, lovely and caring. We have chats where he goes, "Good day at work, Mummy?", "Yeah, I've been crying all day?", "Why?", "It's just my job", "You have to find a new job!". We were in the newsagent, and he saw a picture of me and Charley Webb [Debbie], who he knows really well, on a magazine cover – how do you explain that to a three-year-old? I just bought him a lollipop, and that was soon far more important!

Kate White

Breaking the silence: Charity's revelation will be explained via flashbacks to her youth

All LOVED UP!

What does this mean for Charity and Vanessa?

This week's hard-hitting story gives both the audience and Vanessa a deeper understanding of Charity. What started as a fling has become serious, and Michelle reckons the fans are cheering on 'Vanity'.

"It's a proper love story – although they haven't said, 'I love you' to each other yet," grins the star. "That might be the next hurdle for them. We were on This Morning the other day, and I was showing Emma all the Twitter comments as she's not on social media. It was all positive, and saying we've helped people come out."

In fact, Emma tells us that lesbian mag DIVA has praised Emmerdale for helping gay women to feel able to talk openly about their sexuality.

"One of DIVA's journalists asked me if I realised the impact Charity and Vanessa being a couple was having on a global scale!" explains the actress. "I was like, 'What?'. She told me that the characters have given some women the confidence to come out – particularly because we are a middle-aged couple. This is a love story, regardless of what sex they are, but it's refreshing to have nice feedback! Usually, people are saying, 'That Charity's such a bitch!'"

A mother mourns:
Carmel won't get over her loss quickly

As her alter ego struggles to process her son's tragic passing, Bonnie Langford tells Inside Soap why she feels this was such an important story for EastEnders to explore...

“Carmel feels huge guilt over Shakil’s death”

It seems that hardly a day goes by without a news report about yet another young person who's been stabbed on the streets of London – and with EastEnders being set in the heart of the capital, it was about time the soap tackled this worrying trend. Viewers were distraught when Keegan and Shakil were violently knifed by a gang last week, with tragic Shakil succumbing to his injuries. But as we settle in for a chat with star Bonnie Langford (Carmel) about her character's crippling grief, she tells us how she was honoured to be involved in such an important plot...

"I think it's incredibly brave and important that EastEnders has taken on this story, and that they've treated it with such sensitivity and commitment," she explains. "As an actor I felt a huge sense of responsibility. I feel that it is so much more than just telling a story – it's about sharing the very private and personal world of trauma and grief, and the effects that a violent act can cause."

The raw pain that Carmel feels over losing her beloved boy is clear to see this week. Her eldest son Kush is trying to be her rock in the days following Shaki's death, and her other son Darius flies in from Dubai with his dad Umar to support Carmel in her darkest hour. But even the love of her family can do little to ease Carmel's suffering.

"Carmel is not coping well at all," sighs Bonnie. "She starts off in denial, completely refusing to accept that this has happened. She then goes through an absolute roller coaster of emotions, to the point where Kush is very worried about her – and quite rightly so. When it does finally dawn on her what's happened, she is very, very angry, and completely lost. Shaki was her baby, and she feels this huge guilt because she was away at the time of the crime."

However, it's not just guilt that Carmel feels. She's also furious that someone could have inflicted this terrible fate on her beloved boy. So will she be looking for someone to blame?

"Carmel wants to blame everybody," confirms Bonnie. "She feels that these young people don't seem to understand the consequences of acting out of anger, status, pride or greed. She thinks they have no respect for their own lives or anyone else's. Carmel just can't understand any of it, and she doesn't know what to do. She is determined to do something to try to make up for it – to try to change it – but of course the one thing she will never do is change the outcome for herself."

Watching Carmel's world fall apart is bound to be harrowing for EastEnders fans. But Bonnie tells us how important it is to show the lasting impact that knife crime has on the victims' families.

"When the immediate aftermath has passed, for others the world carries on as normal – but for Carmel and her family, life has changed forever," she says. "There is an emptiness, a void that will never be filled again. Those are the times – behind closed doors – that we rarely see, unless it happens to us. Ultimately when the frenzy is over, people are left with having to come to terms with what's happened, and that can be the hardest time of all."

It's going to be a long time before Carmel is back to the positive, bubbly character we all know and love – if she ever gets back there at all. But although these gruelling scenes have been tough for Bonnie, she tells us that if it stops even one person from suffering the same fate as Shakil, it will all be worth it.

"I hope this storyline gets people thinking and talking," suggests the star. "I hope people can begin to understand the hopelessness, and think twice before carrying a knife. I hope families are able to talk and listen to each other."

"There are more and more reports of incidents on our streets every day," adds Bonnie. "I really, really hope that there's at least one less dreadful headline. If this storyline can change someone's mind, it might just do something good."

Sarah Ellis

Farewell SHAHEEN!

Bonnie's missing her former co-star dreadfully...

Shakil's death has meant the departure of Bonnie's cast mate Shaheen Jafargholi, who played the tragic lad, and she admits that not seeing his smiling face on the set every day has been a tough adjustment.

"I'm so sad that Shaheen has left!" wails the actress. "Out of all of the cast, we're probably the two that stick together the most away from work. We meet for coffee and things like that. So I do miss my boy!"

"Shaheen's got such a great energy and a beautiful spirit – he's wonderful at bringing people together," adds Bonnie. "He's such a lovely light to be around, and I miss him terribly."

The blame game: Carmel lashes out at everyone for her son's death

Finn of the past: Elly has a lot of history with her nasty ex

Girl POWER!

NEIGHBOURS' JODI ANASTA TELLS US THAT IT'S TIME FOR THE LADIES OF ERINSBOROUGH TO SHINE...

We're used to chatting to Neighbours stars first thing in the morning, due to the time difference between the UK and Australia – so when we're instructed to call Jodi Anasta (Elly) during our lunch break, we know it must be a pretty late hour over in Melbourne.

"It's 10 o'clock here, but that's okay," she tells us, when we wonder why she's working so late. "I've been doing 12-hour days for the last little while – I've got about eight different storylines all coming to a head, so it's been a really busy period. But I'm absolutely loving it, especially scenes we have in the Kennedy house where we just film them back-to-back. It's a really great time for Elly."

We doubt Elly will agree when she finds out that her creepy ex, Finn Kelly, is back in town! He rocked up last week, as the secret boyfriend of her sister Beatrix. He's clearly using Bea to get to Elly – but right now, she's blissfully unaware that he's even out of jail.

"No one thought that they would see Finn Kelly again, let alone with Elly's little sister!" chuckles Jodi. "This is such a brilliant storyline – having Finn around is always a great addition to Neighbours. I love working with Rob Mills, and I think that he plays the character really well. Finn is terrifying, creepy and cold – he's everything that the enemy should be."

For the time being, Elly's just delighted to have her little sister in her life once more, and is desperate to make up for all the years she neglected Bea. But given how strained their relationship has been in recent times, it will take a lot of effort on Elly's part to get things back on track.

"Elly was obsessed with boys and partying, so she didn't have a lot of time for her annoying little sister," explains Jodi. "Elly has no idea where Bea has been or what she's been doing – she doesn't even know that her sibling was homeless, and that she felt abandoned. So as you can imagine, there's a lot of work to do to rebuild that relationship."

"It's been so exciting for me to have Bonnie [Anderson, who plays Bea] come on board," adds the actress. "I love working with her – it feels as though we really are sisters now. We have a lot of the same mannerisms, which is quite funny to see."

Rumours are circulating that former Home and Away star Debra Lawrance, who played Pippa Ross, will be playing Elly's mum Liz – but Jodi is staying tight-lipped on any casting announcements for now.

"You'll definitely see Liz soon," she teases. "There's such a great energy on set at the moment, we have a real girls' club going on. There are lots of storylines to do with the relationships between the women in Elly's family – Susan's relationship with her sister Liz, Liz's relationship with her daughters, and Elly's relationship with Bea. They're all really wonderful to explore.

"Susan and Elly have a special relationship as well, so I've got some huge stuff coming up with Jackie Woodburne, who plays Susan. She teaches me things all the time, and pulls me up when she thinks I can be better. Jackie's an incredible actress, so I'm really grateful that I get the chance to learn from her."

Sarah Ellis

Misbah's MISERY

Hollyoaks' Harvey Viridi talks to us about Imran's abuse...

It's hard to admit when you're suffering violence at the hands of someone you love – especially when that person is your own child. But Hollyoaks star Harvey Viridi (Misbah) tells us the misery Imran is inflicting on his mum isn't at all unusual...

What was your reaction when you heard about this plot?

I was excited to explore it. I'd been looking into it, and actually started to realise it's far more common than I thought it would be. But people are so scared and ashamed to talk about it – so it feels good doing this storyline.

Misbah has been suffering in silence. Why is it so hard for her to admit what's going on?

It's that thing of not wanting to be judged – she doesn't want people to think she can't handle her own child. She's also afraid of speaking out in case the police or social services get involved.

What happens this week with Imran's football match?

Misbah promises him she will be there to watch his game – but after he leaves, Yas starts to have chest pains. Misbah is terrified and rushes her to the hospital. She forgets about Imran's match, and he's really hurt when she doesn't turn up.

And she later pays Buster to keep Imran on the team...

She does! It comes from a good place, but it's a silly thing to do. She doesn't think Imran will find out, but of course, he does. I was trying to imagine how embarrassed and angry I would be if my mother did something like that to me!

The scenes between Imran and Misbah are pretty brutal. What are they like to film?

They can be intense, but we try to make sure we have a laugh when we're not shooting. Ijaz [Rana, who plays Imran] and I talk a lot about, 'What would you do if this was your mum' and, 'What would your mum say in this situation?'. Luckily, the Maaliks are all close off screen – I feel as if they're my babies!

10 totally true FACTS about... Scott Maslen

YOUR InsideSoap BRIEFING ON THE MAN BEHIND EASTENDERS' JACK...

WORDS: TOM SPILSBURY. PHOTOS: REX/SHUTTERSTOCK, GETTY, TWITTER/REALSCOTTMASLEN

1 Scott Alexander Maslen was born on 25 June 1971 in Woolwich, South London. He spent much of his childhood attending the Bromley Marine Cadets, before signing up for the Royal Marines with two of his school friends at the age of 16. He later sustained an injury, so he changed career path – first becoming a model, then an actor. He came on to our radar in 2002, when he took on the regular role of DS Phil Hunter in The Bill, staying on the show for five years. And in an EastEnders connection, DS Hunter's mum was played by Anita Dobson – aka Walford's Angie Watts!

2 The BBC poached Scott from rival drama The Bill, and he made his EastEnders debut as ex-copper Jack Branning in 2007. Introduced as the youngest child of Jim and Reenie Branning (brother to Derek, April, Carol, Suzy and Max), Jack has become the Square's resident Romeo! Over the years, he's enjoyed flings with Tanya Branning, Chelsea Fox and Mel Owen, as well as Sam, Sharon and Roxy Mitchell – but his longest relationship was with Ronnie Mitchell, who he first wed in 2010, separated from in 2012, and then remarried on New Year's Day 2017. Tragically, Jack was widowed on the same day, when Ronnie and sister Roxy drowned in a swimming pool.

3 In real life, Scott has been a lot luckier in love! He met his long-term partner Estelle in Primrose Hill in August 1999 – during the solar eclipse! After romancing her for almost a decade, the couple married in 2008, and have a son together called Zak, born in 2001.

4 Scott's missus has admitted that it was extremely odd for her to see her hubby lock lips with Ronnie Mitchell on screen, as in real life they're best friends with actress Samantha Womack! "It was so weird, because they're just like brother and sister," commented Estelle. Scott has known Sam since the pair were teenagers, and they're such close pals that he's godfather to her two children.

5 Scott left EastEnders for two years in October 2013, during which time he appeared in US soap opera The Royals, starring Liz Hurley. In the drama, Scott played married politician James Holloway, the lover of King Cyrus, played by Jake Maskall (aka ex-EastEnder Danny Moon!).

6 Scott proved to be a fantastic mover and groover when he participated in the 2010 series of Strictly Come Dancing.

While he and partner Natalie Lowe were knocked out in the semi-final, they greatly impressed the judging panel, scoring 39 points out of 40 for both their Viennese waltz and their jive. However, despite often topping the judges' leaderboard, Scott was ultimately pipped to the post by fellow EastEnder Kara Tointon (Dawn Swann), who ended up waltzing away with the trophy!

7 He was also a gallant loser five years later when he competed in Celebrity MasterChef. Once again, he fell at the last hurdle, being knocked out of the competition one show before the grand final. But while his menu of pan-seared halibut, tomato salsa, followed by chocolate puff-pastry crisps with orange cream and cherries failed to win over the judges, it looked delicious to us!

8 Despite the fact that star Scott has been a strict vegetarian since the age of 18, he is a keen carp fisherman. The actor spent his most recent New Year break at Orchid Lakes in Oxfordshire, where he managed to catch a gigantic carp that weighed in at a massive 33lb 8oz! "I take a photo with them, give them a kiss, and put them back in the water!" admits Scott. Well, we're just glad that he doesn't make a meal of it!

9 When he's not been busy playing Walford's Jack, Scott has taken to the stage to perform in Christmas pantomimes.

A couple of years ago he tackled the role of villain Abanazar in Aladdin – but admitted he ended up completely embarrassing his teenage son with his over-the-top performance! Looking at his fabulous costume, we really can't imagine why...

10 Like his alter ego's pal Mick, Scott supports West Ham – and once played a bit of football himself. Back in 2006, he took part in a charity Soccer Six tournament alongside his colleagues from The Bill, playing on the Hammers' home turf at Upton Park – but alas, Scott and his chums were, er, hammered by the team from Hollyoaks! Better luck at the next Inside Soap Awards, Scott!

Nice guy EDDIE?

NEW CASUALTY RECRUIT JOE GAMINARA TELLS US THINGS ARE ABOUT TO GET A LOT DARKER FOR HIS ALTER EGO...

As Inside Soap reported last issue, Alicia Munroe is about to face one of the toughest moments of her life – when she wakes up in bed with her colleague Eddie, with no recollection of agreeing to have sex with him. The hard-hitting storyline kicks off this week, after the pair share a post-work drink and end up going home together – so we grabbed Casualty newbie Joe Gaminara, who plays Eddie, for a chat about what the next few weeks hold for his character...

Hi Joe! Did you know anything about this storyline when you took on the role of Eddie?

Yes, I did – although I didn't know all of the details. I was told that it would be a consent storyline, and it would be handled with care. The writers and producers have spent a lot of time researching it and talking to the charity Rape Crisis – they wanted it to be a truthful reflection of real life.

Why do you think it's so important for Casualty to cover a topic like consent?

There's a real grey area in situations like this – it's not always black and white. We want people at home to have debates about this story, rather than just going, "Oh, he's a bad guy," or, "No he's not, she's being silly". I think what happens between Eddie and Alicia is quite realistic, especially given the statistics of how many rape cases fall apart because of a lack of evidence.

What do the Casualty viewers make of Eddie so far?

I think when he originally came in, people were wondering if he was going to be really cocky and arrogant, or if he was just a bit of a wind-up merchant. And I think they're starting to realise he's just a very ambitious person who enjoys the thrill of the contest. It's usually in good jest. He's keen to progress.

He's going head-to-head with Bea for a place on the international trauma course. Does he see her as serious competition?

He does, actually – he really rates Bea because she's a very good doctor. And I think that if he didn't see her as a genuine challenge, then he wouldn't enjoy the thrill of it. She's forcing him to raise his game.

Can you tell us about the competition that the pair of them have this week?

It's basically just who can treat the most patients in a day, which is a bit of fun. It's a really good bonding exercise for the team. But it's also a bit naughty because you shouldn't be doing that in a hospital!

Alicia is acting as Eddie's mentor – what does he think of her?

They get on very well. He certainly respects Alicia, because she's been promoted pretty quickly within the ED, and he finds that inspiring. But that doesn't mean he won't challenge her when he thinks she's wrong.

We want people at home to have debates about this story...

Ward a flirt: Newcomer Eddie strikes up a bond with his ED mentor Alicia

Can you tell us what happens at the pub at the end of the shift?

They're all hanging out as a gang and having a good time. Eddie is left talking to Alicia, one on one – it's not a deliberate thing, it just happens. Alicia is in a flirty mood and makes a move on Eddie, which is unexpected. Although he has thought that she might fancy him!

How will this storyline affect Eddie going forward?

It gets quite difficult, and there's a lot of tension in the air. The paranoia creeps in, and he begins to wonder if everyone is talking about him behind his back...

Is Casualty your first major TV role?

I've done a few little things before – I died in Holby City a few years ago! But this is my first consistent TV part. It's been really nice, as there are so many guests coming in for each episode, so you get to work with a new bunch of people.

You have a lot of heavy scenes coming up. How do you switch off from Eddie at the end of the day?

I'm really into football, and I run a club back in London. So I love to go home for the weekend and play some footy!

Sarah Ellis

Casualty had reason to celebrate recently, as it was crowned Best Soap and Continuing Drama at the BAFTA TV Awards! The medical drama beat off stiff competition from Corrie, Emmerdale and Hollyoaks to scoop the prestigious gong – and George Rainsford (Ethan) led the celebrations on stage...

"We'd like to thank everyone who watches the show," he grinned, while joined by co-star Chelsea Halfpenny (Alicia) at London's Royal Festival Hall. "This is for everybody who works so hard to make it what it is."

“I’m very proud of what we created with Phelan”

AS THE STREET SUPER-VILLAIN BLASTS OUT OF WEATHERFIELD, CONNOR MCINTYRE HAS NO REGRETS...

He’s the most talked about soap baddy in Britain – but whether you love or loathe Corrie’s Pat Phelan, audiences have still been tuning in, week after week, and the soap’s viewing figures are at its highest in years.

That’s because star Connor McIntyre – who happens to be one of the nicest humans Inside Soap has ever had the pleasure of chatting with – has put his heart and soul into crafting the ultimate Street bad boy. Yes, it’s been dark at times, but it certainly hasn’t been dull!

So as Weatherfield promises an unmissable week of drama – kicking off with Phelan’s revenge and culminating in his departure (see p4 for the full story) – it’s with a heavy heart that Connor waves goodbye to Coronation Street, privileged to have played a character who is very much up there with the greats...

"To be mentioned in the same breath as Corrie baddies like Alan Bradley and Richard Hillman... these are household names that still terrify me!" chuckles the 57-year-old actor, as he joins us for a final Corrie interview. "I'm very proud of Phelan, as it was a real statement of trust on the show's part, to have me go from a domestic love story straight down into the cellar. I am proud of that as it's something that you earn, and it's because they know that you can handle it. Collectively, we have managed to create something that is going to be around for a while."

We've no doubt that Phelan's reign of terror will be remembered on the Street for many years to come – but for the man himself, the end is most certainly nigh. Connor is sworn to secrecy over the finer details of his exit, and if his wicked alter ego will receive his comeuppance – but judging by the events that unfold this week, Phelan won't go down without a fight!

"In typical Corrie style, Gary makes a bad decision when he should have just told the police where Phelan was hiding," shares the star. "However, it seems fate has dictated this story has to end where it started – back on the cobbles, coming full circle."

"For Phelan it is all about Nicola's baby – his grandchild – and what he believes is his legacy. If he thinks that the game is up, his focus will be to preserve that legacy, being the narcissist that he is!"

While we're in no doubt that Phelan's humanity died long ago, his love for Eileen seemed to be his only salvation. However, not even that will manage to survive his final acts of terror on the cobbles.

"Pat does something spiteful to Eileen which kind of dismantles the whole love thing," sighs Connor. "He doesn't make a lie of anything he's felt for her in the past, as he does love her, but he says something

Phelan trapped:
But will Gary regret tracking him down?

horrible – and it's a moment. When people see that, they will be divided over whether Phelan's love for her was ever genuine, but really he's wounded and lashing out."

Phelan's had so many memorable times on the Street – so we've put together a recap over the page for you to gasp at once more! For Connor, the biggest pay-off has always been the support from fans – which really hit home when it looked as though Pat had been claimed by the sea.

"It was heartening because there we were, invested in a character like this, and all of a sudden there was the possibility that we might not see him any more," grins the actor. "The overwhelming reaction to seeing him alive and stitching up his wounds at the B&B was phenomenal. Phelan had survived yet again!"

Prior to playing Phelan, Connor enjoyed roles in a long list of television shows, including Silent Witness, Waking The Dead and Wire In The Blood – but the star credits the Street for giving him his big break.

"There is a very long list of things that Corrie has given to me – a platform, friendship, awards and recognition from my peers, the industry and the public," he beams. "Equally it has secured my art studio, The Alamo, for the next couple of years, and that means an awful lot to me. It's run by my partner, who is also a painter, and we take in graduates and mentor them. It's the largest independent lead studio space in Plymouth, and we don't get money from anybody. So my time on Coronation Street has given me an opportunity to talk about these things."

We wouldn't blame Connor if his next acting role ended up being worlds away from Phelan – but the glint in his eye tells us he's open to suggestions...

"Put it this way," he says. "If someone said to me, 'Do you want to spend the rest of your life playing bad guys?' I would reply, 'Sure, what's the script like?'"

Laura-Jayne Tyler

She's BEHIND YOU!

Weatherfield's
Michael and Phelan
– as you've never seen them before...

They played arch-rivals on the Street, but stars Connor and Les Dennis (aka Phelan's first victim Michael Rodwell) will revive their partnership to take on the roles of the Ugly Sisters in a panto of Cinderella at the Opera House in Manchester later this year.

"When I heard about Cinderella, my wife Claire said, 'It would be great to get you and Connor as ugly sisters'," shares Les. "So I texted the director and suggested 'Michaela' and 'Phelamena' for the part. It's going to bring a whole new meaning to 'she's behind you!' – so we'll definitely have to get that in!"

Trouble and strife: Eileen is stunned to see
Phelan again

13 UNLUCKY

As we bid a firm “good riddance!” to perfidious Phelan, we add up his catalogue of crime on the Street...

1 The Windass family quickly regretted going into business with Phelan. Gary saw red and beat Pat senseless after he made a move on his mum – but Phelan used CCTV footage of the attack in order to blackmail Gary and Owen into working for nothing!

4 Phelan teamed up with his old mucker Vinny in the Calcutta Street property scam. Phelan sold expensive flats to his neighbours – flats he never intended to build. But the con man was conned when Vinny fled with all the dosh, and left Phelan to carry the can!

5 Gail's husband Michael Rodwell had long suspected the truth about Phelan, and found proof that he was complicit in the Calcutta Street play. But Michael's dodgy heart gave out, and Phelan merely sat back and watched him die.

8 It turned out that Phelan didn't kill Andy after all, and had instead kept him imprisoned in a basement. They developed a weird relationship, with Phelan even arranging a fake 'escape' to test Andy's loyalty.

11 Luke started to unravel the mystery disappearance of his friend Andy, and made the mistake of confronting Phelan. When Pat realised that the game was up, he attacked Luke. A car chase ended with Luke trapped – and Phelan shot him, causing his car to explode!

2 Worse still, Phelan said he'd report Gary to the police unless Anna slept with him. She did so, to her disgust, and it ended her relationship with Owen. Phelan stole £80k from them and fled to Dubai.

3 The villain returned two years later, working as a labourer. He was taken on by Jason Grimshaw, but then immediately set about undermining the poor fella. Jason left the country, leaving Phelan to get his hands on his business, and his mother!

6 Andy Carver, who viewed Michael as his dad, guessed the truth and attacked Phelan. But once again Phelan used this as blackmail material, forcing Andy to commit crimes for him. When Andy tried to outwit Pat, we were left to think that Phelan had killed him!

7 Phelan was shocked to discover that social worker Nicola was his daughter. He claimed he loved Nicola's mother, but the young woman was later disgusted to learn that she was conceived as a result of rape.

9 Cunning Phelan managed to track down Vinny, and was eager to get revenge for being conned. Ultimately, Pat dealt with two problems at once. He forced Andy to shoot Vinny, and then shot Andy himself! He dumped both bodies in a pond beside a building site.

10 Desperate to be rid of Anna - who had long been a thorn in his side - Phelan framed her for an attack on young Seb. In fact, Seb fell from a ladder accidentally, and the lad was lucky to survive the ordeal.

12 As more and more people came to suspect Phelan, he guessed the jig was up, and fled town with Eileen. She had refused to believe the truth about her husband, but when bodies were found in Weatherfield, it led to a cliff-top showdown!

13 Gary tracks down Phelan in Wales, and recklessly brings him back to Weatherfield. The stage is set for the ultimate showdown - will Pat live to fight another day?

Mouse call: A chance to catch up on local wildlife

SPRINGWATCH | BBC2 BANK HOLIDAY MON-THURS

OUTSIDE EDGE

GILLIAN BURKE, CHRIS PACKHAM AND MICHAELA STRACHAN GET BACK TO NATURE...

This time last year, the Springwatch team were heading to a new location to try something different: the National Trust's Sherborne Park estate in Gloucestershire was to provide the show a home for the next 12 months, cycling through Autumnwatch and Winterwatch and back to spring again, to follow a whole year in one constant environment. Now they're heading back for the last time and they're very interested to see what awaits them as the season marches on.

"It's great to be back at the same place," enthuses Michaela Strachan. "We're very familiar with it and it's good to see what's happened with some of the wildlife we've been following all year."

While its familiarity means that they'll be comfortable in their surroundings, it does provide some challenges of its own – such as not going over all the same ground they covered last year.

"The camera guys know we want new things," says Chris Packham. "But at the same time, familiarity breeds a certain amount of security, particularly for the people who are filming. They know areas where they're likely to get some action, so in that way it's easier – as long as it isn't the same action we had before!"

And while Chris and Michaela will spend the next three weeks based at Sherborne to bring us all the latest updates from the grounds, Gillian Burke will be travelling the length of the UK and broadcasting from a different location each week.

"It's going to be a big road trip – I'm really excited," she tells us. "We're starting in the Shetlands, then week two will be the Yorkshire Dales, and we're finishing week three in Cornwall – which is my home patch. It will be interesting bumping into my buddies while trying to do my thing!"

With Springwatch the main event, running for three weeks instead of the single week given to Autumnwatch and Winterwatch, which of the three series do the presenters most look forward to?

"Definitely spring," states Michaela. "You can't write the story – everything's a surprise."

"Autumnwatch is always brilliant because of its variability," adds Chris.

"I'm just looking forward to being in some daylight," chuckles Gillian. "In Winterwatch it's like, 'I'm in this amazing place – but to see it, we're going to have to show what we filmed earlier!'"

I don't watch a lot of comedy, because it feels like a busman's holiday, but I watched and absolutely loved every second of Derry Girls. And Detectorists is right up there as well for me – they're perfect programmes.

My favourite film growing up was *The Blues Brothers, although I can't really work out when it's age-appropriate to show it to my kids. But it is a

THIS YEAR'S GOLDEN BUZZER ACTS CHAT ABOUT THEIR LIFE-CHANGING AUDITIONS...

In this Saturday's episode of Britain's Got Talent, the judges must make the tough decision of who gets a spot in the live semi-finals, which are airing across the week. Of course, five contestants have already got their place guaranteed thanks to one of the judges (or Ant and Dec) pressing the golden buzzer at their audition. Those lucky hopefuls tell us how that felt – and what's in store.

DONCHEZ DACRES

Sixty-year-old AA man Donchez had the whole room up and dancing to his song Wiggle And Wine, and

David Walliams decided that he definitely wanted to see more from Donchez. "I'm still on cloud nine," shares the singer. "I had such a wonderful time performing, and the golden buzzer was just the icing on the cake."

Will he get everyone up and dancing again in the semi-finals? "I've got some stuff that you're not going to believe," promises Donchez. "My family know my tunes, and they can't wait!"

GRUFFYDD WYN

Singer Gruffydd got the series off to an excellent start for the judges, when

Amanda pressed the golden buzzer for him on the very first day of auditions in Blackpool. "That moment is never going to leave my brain," he laughs. "It was incredible – my heart was all over the place!"

As to how he's planning to top that, watch this space: "I've been working hard since the audition and have some very exciting songs up my sleeve," he teases.

JACK AND TIM

We don't get adaptations of Shakespeare on television often, so when we do you can guarantee there'll be a huge cast of stars keen to get their teeth into the Bard. This new telling of King Lear is no different, with Anthony Hopkins, Emma Thompson, Jim Broadbent and Emily Watson in starring roles.

"We had the best time!" enthuses Emma, who plays the King's eldest daughter Goneril. "We had this incredible experience of watching Anthony play King Lear. Every time he did his speeches, he gave it full blast Expect another new song from the pair this week: "We won't do a cover. Jack has learned so much about writing – I'm so proud of him to have embraced that side of music."

LIFFORD SHILLINGFORD

Alesha hit the golden buzzer after being moved by Lifford's rendition of the Sam Cooke classic A Change Is Gonna Come. "I never expected anything like it," he admits. "I just wanted to get through the audition and remember all my words – anything else was a bonus. This was definitely a bonus!"

"I've decided on a song, but I've got to keep that hush-hush," adds Lifford. "I just want to enjoy it and have fun."

MARC SPELMANN

There wasn't a dry eye in the house after illusionist Marc performed his act – with help from his young daughter Isabella. "It was bizarrely beautiful," he enthuses. "If it were to end here and now I will forever be grateful for that moment."

"Phillip Schofield asked me how I will top that," says Marc. "It's not a question of topping it, but complementing it hugely."

even if he wasn't on camera – he was miraculous!"

King Lear tells the story of an aging king who plans to divide his realm between his three daughters. Older girls Goneril and Regan butter him up and are handsomely rewarded, but when his youngest, Cordelia, refuses to flatter him, she is immediately disinherited.

"We're dealing with a very dysfunctional family," says Emma. "You know things will go wrong – but they go wronger than anyone could possibly imagine!"

PETER KAY'S CAR SHARE | BBC1 BANK HOLIDAY MON

DRIVEN TO DISTRACTION

PETER KAY AND SIAN GIBSON ARE BACK FOR ONE LAST TRIP IN THE FIAT 500...

There were wails of anguish across the country last year as the second series of Peter Kay's Car Share ended with Kayleigh leaving the car in tears after declaring her feelings for John, believing he didn't feel the same – even though the viewers knew differently, of course. And when it was announced that there would be no third series, fans were absolutely horrified – they wouldn't just leave it there on that cliffhanger, would they?

"We always knew that the second series would end that way," reveals Peter. "We thought people might be a bit miffed, but we honestly never thought that they would be so devastated."

"Even I was screaming at the telly," recalls Sian Gibson, who plays Kayleigh. "And I knew what happened!"

Fortunately, Car Share is back for a one-off special this week that Peter promises will give viewers that much-needed closure.

"We decided to write another episode to give the characters a resolve," he shares. "I thought, 'Let's hold this until the repeat of the second series' – but it was hard to keep it a secret after the reaction we got! We never said there wouldn't be any more Car Shares – just there wouldn't be a third series..."

QUEEN VICTORIA AND HER TRAGIC FAMILY | Channel 5 9.15PM

DON'T Miss!

The royal issue

The second instalment of this intriguing documentary that puts a family focus on a royal story looks at the deterioration of Victoria's relationship with her children – in the wake of her beloved husband Prince Albert's death in 1861.

Victoria had taken to hiding away from public life, and while she disapproved of her eldest son Bertie's extravagant lifestyle and considered his behaviour unbecoming of a future king, it was his exuberance that helped to draw attention away from the fact that the Queen was rarely seen.

Things weren't helped by Victoria's growing closeness to John Brown, who became a regular fixture in the royal household, but was not liked by the Queen's children...

HARRY HILL'S ALIEN FUN CAPSULE | ITV 7.30PM

DON'T Miss!

Some people ask for a car to the studio when they've got a panel show appearance – but not Carol Vorderman, who turns up for tonight's programme in the Tardis, paying homage to the time she stepped out of the iconic blue box on BBC educational series A Way With Numbers. She's joined by ex-EastEnders Charlie Brooks, former Holby star Chizzy Akudolu and comedian Lolly Adefope for tonight's comic journey, where Harry unearths a musical ode to Lolly's favourite video game Tetris and, in honour of tonight's all-female panel, there's even a special women-themed round.

HOW THE YOUNG ONES CHANGED COMEDY | Gold 9.20PM

When the surreal sitcom, with its scumbag students, anarchic landlord and... er... Mike, burst on to 80s TV, everyone under the age of 30 was hooked. This first truly alternative show rewrote all the rules, with random guest roles and the likes of Motörhead playing live in the living room. With archive footage and insight from its stars, this one-off programme explores a comedy legacy that still reverberates today.

THE BIGGEST WEEKEND | BBC4 7PM

The BBC's big bash featuring more stars than you can shake a stick at continues tonight. Expect to see the likes of First Aid Kit, Wolf Alice, Neneh Cherry and Simple Minds popping up on BBC4 from venues across the UK.

BRITAIN'S GOT MORE TALENT LIVE | ITV2 9.15PM

The judges have made their final decisions and we know who'll be getting a second chance to impress in the live semi-finals later in the week. Join Stephen Mulhern for extra amounts of debate and jubilation behind the scenes.

The stage whisperer

Since it opened over 100 years ago, the London Palladium has been home to some of the best-loved musicals on the West End stage including Oliver!, Cats, The Sound Of Music and Joseph And His Amazing Technicolour Dreamcoat. It's also been the stage for the Royal Variety Performance on 41 occasions – more than any other venue.

Naturally, any theatre that has had this many shows and stars pass through it will have picked up a lot of interesting stories, and in this one-off documentary, Bradley Walsh gets special backstage access to root out those secrets. Celebs such as Andrew Lloyd Webber, Sheila Hancock and, er, Basil Brush will be sharing their best Palladium anecdotes.

Questions in parliament

A VERY ENGLISH SCANDAL | BBC1 9PM

Jeremy's position becomes even more precarious in tonight's second episode, as he finds himself in with a chance of becoming Prime Minister – but Norman is insistent that Jeremy keep the promises that he made to him, and he's more than prepared to make Jeremy's life difficult in order to get what he wants. With his trusted confidante Peter Bessell away in California, Jeremy realises that if he wants to ensure Norman's permanent silence, there's only one sure-fire way of making it happen. But unfortunately, the person who's contracted for the job makes a mess of it...

PADDINGTON STATION: WINDSOR WEDDING SPECIAL | Channel 5 9PM

Know your station

If you haven't yet had your fill of royal wedding coverage after last Saturday, this episode – which the production team have turned around admirably quickly – shows how staff across the railway network prepared for the thousands of expected visitors heading from Paddington to Windsor via Slough in the hope of catching a glimpse of the happy couple.

For Slough station manager Alison, that means everything from organising crowd control to hanging up some bunting.

And things are no quieter elsewhere, as a power failure on 20 miles of track between Didcot and Maidenhead spells disaster across the network, and the British Transport Police are in pursuit of trespassers on the line in Bristol.

DON'T Miss!

Arresting views

24 HOURS IN POLICE CUSTODY | Channel 4 9PM

Regional variations

Tonight's episode focuses on a secret operation targeting a major organised crime group that the police believe is planning to drop huge amounts of heroin and crack cocaine in Luton. This isn't your everyday undercover operation either – the unit involved is such a closely-guarded secret that nobody outside it knows that it exists in the first place. The carefully-planned sting begins with a series of tactical arrests, building up to one big day when 10 simultaneous armed raids are scheduled for dawn, taking down the whole gang in one fell swoop – but once under arrest, will they talk?

ELEMENTARY | Sky Living 9PM

After a man is electrocuted in the middle of a street and Sherlock deduces that the electricity used was man-made, he and Joan discover that the deceased was working on a cannon that fires out lightning – so this case seems to have come directly from the Department of Ironic Deaths. Meanwhile, Joan meets up with her half-sister Lin to talk through the death of their biological father, but the letter he left for her leaves Joan confused.

WESTWORLD | Sky Atlantic 9PM

We've reached episode six and this, interestingly, is the point where the show's US broadcaster, HBO, decided to stop releasing previews of the episodes to the press. Does that mean there are spoilerific surprises in store? Maybe...

MADE IN CHELSEA | E4 9PM

It's the end of the series, so you know what that means: time for a debrief. Comedian Ellie Taylor will be gathering the cast together to chat through the big stories of the last few months and ask all those difficult questions...

THE BATTLE FOR BRITAIN'S HEROES | Channel 4 9PM

Hidden histories

Channel 4 isn't afraid of courting controversy, and we suspect that this latest documentary might become the subject of a few headlines, too. British people in general are fiercely proud of our history and the influence we've had on the wider world, but as people across the globe confront the unsavoury sides of their historical figures, writer and broadcaster Afua Hirsch asks if we should be doing the same.

In the programme, Afua lists some of the issues that we prefer not to think about (Nelson's pro-slavery stance, Churchill's views on race), talks to both protestors and traditionalists, and visits Germany to see what lessons we can learn from their approach to history.

Under examination

GRAMMAR SCHOOLS: WHO WILL GET IN? | BBC2 9PM

Selective secondary education remains a highly divisive subject among parents, and the issue was brought back into the headlines earlier this year when Theresa May announced plans for more grammar schools. This three-part series explores the matter in depth through the London borough of Bexley, one of the few areas with a fully selective education system. Some of the most moving points in tonight's opener come from young Philip, who views his 11-plus exam as a major determining factor in whether he'll be successful in life – and as something that will separate him from his friends.

KILLED BY MY DEBT | BBC3 10AM

The team behind Murdered By My Father and Murdered For Being Different return with this subtle, chilling film based on the true story of 19-year-old motorbike courier Jerome Rogers, who took his own life after falling into an inescapable spiral of debt. Rising star Chance Perdomo is superb as Jerome, whose small-scale debts gradually grow out of control, leaving him desperate for help.

THE FLASH | Sky One 8PM

The scarlet speedster reaches the finish line tonight, as Team Flash receives help from an unexpected ally in their battle against DeVoe. We'll also be finding out who the mysterious woman is who first appeared at Barry and Iris' wedding...

CODE BLACK | W 10PM

The staff of Angels Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles are back for a third season of the intense medical drama. The doctors fight to save a nine-year-old girl shot during a drugs bust, and new starter Pepper has a terrible first day.

THE BIG CRASH DIET EXPERIMENT | BBC1 8PM

Live and let diet

For some time now, crash diets have been dismissed as an effective method of weight loss, but new research suggests that in certain circumstances they may work after all.

In this programme, Dr Javid Abdelmoneim teams up with Professor Susan Jebb, a former government adviser on obesity, to guide four volunteers, who are all classified as obese, on a carefully controlled liquids-only diet of 800 calories per day.

As well as seeing if these Very Low Calorie Diets (VLCDs) help the subjects to lose weight, Javid is interested to see if they could potentially have benefits for other health conditions such as diabetes. It's going to be a harsh adjustment for the volunteers at first, but will they come to see any benefits?

Buried treasures

POMPEII'S FINAL HOURS: NEW EVIDENCE | Channel 5 9PM

John Sergeant, Bettany Hughes and archaeologist Raksha Dave present this series – airing across the next three evenings at 9pm – and will be using the latest technology and findings from new excavations to explore the final 48 hours of the Roman city of Pompeii before it was buried under volcanic ash. In tonight's episode, the team is given permission to take some of the plaster-encased victims of the eruption to be forensically scanned for the first time, Raksha takes part in a live dig, and John heads to nearby Naples to examine how the Roman way of life endures 2,000 years later...

GREY'S ANATOMY | Sky Living 9PM

Not only is tonight's episode the season finale but it's also another Grey's Anatomy wedding, so it rates as an "absolute certainty" on the Impending Disaster-ometer. We'll cautiously wish Jo and Alex the best of luck before taking cover a safe distance away in a lead-lined bunker. Jessica Capshaw (Arizona) and Sarah Drew (April) are leaving the show, so will both characters survive the day?

TIMELESS | E4 10PM

The time-travelling team head back to South Carolina in 1863 where (or rather, when) a Rittenhouse sleeper agent is trying to alter the outcome of the American Civil War. To fight back, they join forces with freedom fighter Harriet Tubman.

RIVERDALE | 5STAR 1.15AM

This compelling teen noir with an impossibly beautiful cast goes gently into the night with its final episode – as the town feels the repercussions of Cliff Blossom's suicide, while Betty's mother Alice shares a secret with her daughter.

HUMANS | Channel 4 9PM

A new lease on life

In her ongoing bid to show that co-existence between Synths and humans is possible, Mia has decided to put her money where her mouth is by living among them – so she goes to see a lettings agent (already this sounds like a terrible plan, to be honest) and, with a little help from Laura, secures herself the lease on a small and unlovely flat. Judging by the reception she gets from her new neighbours though, she probably shouldn't expect them to be popping round to borrow a cup of sugar and chat about the state of the drains just yet.

Meanwhile, Leo and Mattie return to the Hawkins house so Leo can adjust to being human, and Joe – despite every instinct telling him not to – resolves to help out Karen and Sam.

DON'T Miss!

Cheesy does it?

MILLION POUND MENU | BBC2 9PM

Chef Ronnie and bar manager James' business proposal catches the attention of the investors tonight. It's a restaurant concept targeted at commuter belt towns that are under-served by good eateries – but there is one cause for pause: their restaurant Hollings hasn't been road-tested like a lot of the other pitches. They're up against chef Graham, who has already developed a fanbase on Instagram with his food stand in Camden serving fresh pasta from a wheel of cheese. With £200,000 of start-up cash up for grabs, can either party convince the experts to invest?

YOUNG SHELTON | E4 8.30PM

Having fretted for so long about Sheldon not having enough friends, the Coopers find themselves with a different concern tonight, after Sheldon meets a girl called Libby in the science section of the library, and they have to consider the possibility of him having his first girlfriend. Mary's reluctant to let her son go off with his new friend on his own – but will meeting Libby change her mind?

ARROW | Sky One 8PM

Oliver and his team take their last shot at Diaz in tonight's finale, but the presence of "enough explosives to send us into orbit" suggests that he won't be taken down easily. Apparently the producers have got big surprises in store...

EMPIRE | 5STAR 10PM

"Nobody takes what's ours," vows Cookie in tonight's penultimate episode, as she and Lucious stage a livestream concert to raise the money to keep Empire away from Eddie. Meanwhile, Andre must choose his family or his career.

TRACEY BREAKS THE NEWS | BBC1 9.30PM

Taking the Michael

We've long been impressed by Tracey Ullman's ability to disappear under the skin of the characters she plays, but check out that picture up there: does she not look uncannily like Michael Gove? Admit it – for a moment there you weren't sure if you were reading Inside TV or a lofty broadsheet newspaper (okay, we might be getting carried away now).

The Secretary of State for the Environment is one of the new impressions Tracey's added for the second series of her topical comedy series, and the other treats scheduled to appear in tonight's episode include Jeremy Corbyn having an awkward meeting with an old friend, and there's a new double act on the scene – Jacob Rees-Mogg and Nanny.

DON'T Miss!

A musical farce

FRIDAY NIGHT DINNER | Channel 4 10PM

If music be the food of love... well, it's probably nothing to do with Adam, who turns up for dinner this week reluctantly carrying his old violin, which Jackie has arranged for him to play for Grandma as a special treat. Adam always hated playing it, so when Grandma calls to say she can't make it, he thinks that he's escaped – but Jackie's determined not to waste the opportunity and invites Val around to hear him play instead. Worse still, Val turns up with her weird son Spencer, who acts like he's a doctor (he isn't), and who Adam hates almost as much as he hates playing the violin.

IN and OUT

We spin soap's revolving door...

IN RULA LENSKA

(Claudia Colby, Corrie)

Audrey's troublesome frenemy is heading back to Weatherfield, as Rula Lenska reprises the role after more than seven years away. Although Audrey has seen her pal in the interim, the rest of the Street's residents (and the viewers) haven't had the pleasure – so what brings Claudia back to the cobbles? Only time will tell, but we don't think it'll be connected to Lewis...

Summer

KATE KENDALL (Lauren Willis, Neighbours)

The Erinsborough locals are in for a surprise, as Lauren Willis rocks up for a visit. But with Paige and Jack now living with her in Queensland, what brings her back to Ramsay Street? Also, rumours are rife that she's not the only one returning – hubby Brad and his son Ned are tipped to appear at some stage as well... June

CATHERINE TYLDESLEY (Eva Price, Corrie)

OWEN WARNER (Romeo, Hollyoaks)

The son of soon-to-arrive Donna-Marie (played by former Coronation Street star Lucy-Jo Hudson), Romeo is forced to come up with moneymaking scams to support him and his wayward mum – and we'll see him join forces with Prince McQueen for a get-rich-quick scheme. This is actor Owen's first TV role. Summer

THE EX FILES!

What are the one-time stars of soap up to now?

HAYLEY HITS BACK!

Former Corrie and Emmerdale star Hayley Tamaddon – known for her roles as Andrea Beckett and Delilah Dingle respectively – has taken a theatre critic to task. Over comments made about her appearance in a review of her role in the UK stage tour, Thoroughly Modern Millie, the actress said: "It was a wonderful review, glorious in fact. Until it got to the bit saying that I'm neither sexy or beautiful. Was it necessary to mention that? I have thick skin, but it did still hurt to read." The writer in question has since made a public apology to Hayley on social media.

BRIDGING THE GAP

Dales hit-and-run driver Kirin Kotecha is still on the lam from the law, but his real-life alter ego Adam Fielding is going to be popping up on our screens again very soon! The star is set to appear in the Superman prequel TV series, Krypton, due to air on E4 this summer, and he's also bagged the role of Aaron Turner in the new series of Ackley Bridge. Word has it that Aaron's arrival will be a big shock for one of the show's regular characters...

SOL SURVIVOR!

The Osborne family could be set to receive a blast from the past, if ex-Hollyoaks actor Paul Danan has his way. The star played Jack's troublesome stepson Sol Patrick from 1997 to 2001, and is now eyeing up a comeback. "I think it would be awesome if I came back, as I'd have a bit of a tan and cause havoc for the Osbornes again," enthused Paul. Make it happen, show bosses!

THEATRE

THE GIRL ON THE TRAIN

Ex-EastEnders actress Jill Halfpenny (Kate Mitchell) takes on the lead role in this brand-new stage adaptation of the gripping novel. Rachel Watson is a disillusioned commuter who finds herself as a witness and a suspect in a missing persons mystery. Showing at London's Courtyard Theatre until 9 June – to purchase tickets and for information, visit www.thecourtyard.org.uk

DVD

THE CURED

Years after a virus turned people into cannibals, a cure is finally found – however, Senan Browne is haunted by what he did while infected. As he returns to the home of his sister-in-law, fear and suspicion threaten to plunge the world back into chaos.

Win!
For the chance to win a copy, just tell us which soap village featured a zombie-run event: A) Hollyoaks or B) Emmerdale. Text ISWIN1, a space, then A or B and your name & address to 84988 (50p). Or see below for postal entries.

BOOK

WILDE LIKE ME

by Louise Pentland
This novel tells the story of the instantly loveable heroine Robin Wilde – as she attempts to raise her six-year-old daughter, build a career she enjoys, and try dating for the first time since becoming a single mother.

For the chance to win a copy, tell us which EastEnders character has recently become a working single mum: A) Denise or B) Kim. Text ISWIN2, a space, then A or B and your name & address to 84988 (50p). Or see below for postal entries.

STAR CHOICE

Corrie's Tristan Gemmill (Robert)

"I've just started watching the second season of Westworld. I'm very much into sci-fi, and the show looks into what happens with future technology – those kinds of things that we'll eventually have to deal with as a society. They've taken a couple of years to do series two, which shows that they're putting a lot of time into it. So I'm a big fan, even though I don't always understand it!"

Win!

HITS & MISSES!

WHAT'S HIT THE BULLSEYE RECENTLY – AND WHAT'S FALLEN WIDE OF THE MARK?

While local papers across the country are closing, The Chester Herald is kept in business by the antics of about 40 people in one village.

Beastly Stuart is the absolute pits. There's never been a more pressing need for a 'whodunnit?' in EastEnders!

Simply fantastic.

Rita gave us the best lesson in cobbles history when she explained that the Street was named after King Edward VII's coronation in 1902. It's how he would have wanted to be remembered.

BULLSEYE!

Kat was supposed to be the main event of Walford's Slater reunion, but while we wait for her to be blessed with a storyline, Big Mo is busy stealing the show right from under her nose. Mo's commitment to conning cash out of her friends and neighbours is so shameful that we don't know whether to be appalled or impressed. Either way, Albert Square is all the brighter for her bare-faced cheek!

We were delighted to meet Flora's girlfriends Doris and Bertha, who "live dangerously on pork scratchings and milk stout" – and eye of newt and toe of frog, presumably. They can stay!

Either by time travel or cloning, Corrie, EastEnders and Emmerdale seem to have brought us three different generations of the same person.

Thanks, Kathy, for reminding us of that time when Ian was a "proper little rock star" in The Banned, and giving us a shameless excuse to reprint this picture.

Sorry, Luke who? It was only five minutes ago that Alya was holding candlelit vigils for her murdered boyfriend. She bounces back remarkably quickly!

All hail King Ollie of Walford! Look at his ickle face!

We know that Corrie needs new characters to fill its 15 weekly episodes, but we really can't see where this dude is going to fit in. New love for Maria?

If it wasn't enough to bring in entire roof down on poor Gerry, soulless Lachlan had to go and cave in his best friend's skull with a hunk of rock for good measure. That's not just a little bit murder-y, that's A LOT murder-y. There's no coming back from that!
